Stocking Stuffers!

Whether you are looking for gift ideas for the face and body artists in your life or are looking to treat yourself this holiday season, there are many fun products that would make great stocking stuffers. Sure, you may not NEED a brush that is specially cut in the shape of butterfly wings or flower petals, cool acrylic rhinestones, a rainbow palette or glitter gel. But isn't that what makes a great gift? Something that is a bit more of a "want" than a "need?" Sure, you can paint a flower petal with a standard round brush, but if you can increase your speed and add a little variety to your brush selection, why not treat yourself with a new Flora brush? There's no better excuse to try that new tool you've been drooling over than Christmas!

I have been professionally face and body painting for over 15 years, and I'd say that probably the first 13 or 14 of those years I've built my business solely on my set of Kryolan Aquacolor paints, a #5 round and a #2 round brush. That's it. Of course, I still can paint anything with just those simple tools, and those limited supplies have enabled me to really get great at what I do and not have to carry around a huge kit everywhere I go.

But in the past few years, I have been exploring the many other tools available to professional face and body artists, and as a result have gone from just one brand of products on my website to 6. I have thoroughly enjoyed growing my kit and personally testing out the products I now sell on my site.

Here are a few fun products that have been introduced to the Paintertainment.com product line in the past year, along with a few old favorites, that are sure to please yourself or your fellow artists this holiday season! And if Christmas isn't enough of an excuse to treat yourself, here's one more...this month you get 20% your order of $20.00 or more! That's twice the discount we've ever offered in our e-newsletters!

Merry Christmas to you all and happy painting!
