Double Dip Flowers

In celebration of May Day, I thought it would be fitting to show you how to make some quick double-dip flower petals! First, load a round brush with white. Next, dip just the tip of the brush in blue. (I find it works best to start with a light color and then add a darker color, but experiment and see what works with your particular paints!) Placing the tip of the brush where the center of the flower would sit, press the bristles against the skin. The more you press, the larger the petals. Now lift up with a quick flick of the brush away from the center to pull some of the blue farther out. Repeat with remaining petals around the center to complete the petals! Now you can decide how you'd like to add a center to the flower. Here are just a few techniques...

Small rhinestone attached with adhesive

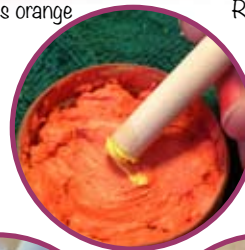

Liquid Bling works great, too!

Load a small dauber with yellow

Slide the edge across orange

Loaded & Ready to go!

Press and twist

A painted center with dimension!
